To Observe Career Week

Maine youth comes in for special attention on the week of March 29-April 3. That is the date of the fifth annual Maine Career Week sponsored by the Maine State Chamber of Commerce in order to help Maine youth find opportunities in Maine.

The Maine Career Week program is mostly designed to help school officials in their guidance efforts according to Fred T. Jordan, President of the State Chamber. "We are working to increase the interest of business and professional men in passing on information and information and assistance to Maine's younger generations," Jordan says. He added the fact that many of these successful men effectively disprove the widespread belief that there are no opportunities in Maine by coming here from other states. Five years ago when the State Chamber's Public Relations Committee was developing the plans for Maine Career Week, they found no native state-of-Mainers were represented on the committee, a fact which was widely used that first year to point up the opportunities that do exist in Maine.

The Maine Career Week program is carried out by the State Chamber with the assistance of local chambers of commerce and other organizations working directly with the guidance workers in the schools. Many schools plan programs for the entire week. While others concentrate their efforts in special meetings held one day of the week.

As in other years the Future Apprentice Competition will be a feature of Maine Career Week. This competition provides tangible rewards to boys who are successful competitors, including a trophy presented by Governor, Cross to the Top Future Apprentice. The Future Apprentice Competition was organized by the State Chamber and the Apprenticeship Council as part of Maine Career Week. The Competition is this year being actively supported by nineteen trade groups, labor organizations and divisions of state government.

Barry York is home from Boston University for a week's vacation and has as his guest Donald Sweeney of Presque Isle and Boston University.

Thursday, March 25

Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, ye that seek the Lord: look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged. (Isaiah 51:1) Read II Peter 3:13-18.

AFTER a visit to ancient Athens, I was traveling through the Suez Canal with a Greek officer. He had spent some time in the United States. He asked, "What are you doing with your heritage?"

Somewhat it brought me back to the ruins of Athens and its ancient grandeur. For a moment I wanted to reply with a similar question to him.

My heritage is a spiritual heritage. Am I conscious of the people and the forces that have made my nation and my church possible? God-loving men and women faithful to Him have passed it on to me. Just what am I doing with it.

In a critical period, Isaiah reminded the people of Israel of their heritage. We need to remember God's help and His blessings to us. For mankind to keep his spiritual heritage, man's dependence must be upon God and His enduring peace rather than upon the things of the world for they will pass into ruin in God's good time.

Prayer
Eternal God, help me to put my trust and faith in Thee. Forgive me where I have wandered from my heritage. Help me to remember that the way of the world shall pass, and that the ultimate need is for the God-like way. In Jesus' name I pray, Amen.

Thought For The Day
"O God, Thy sea is so great, and my boat is so small."—Prayer of the Ancient Britons.
Carroll H. Varner (Tennessee)

"Some people seem to be so afraid of losing their religion that they won't take it to work with them."

Let thy child's first lesson be obedience, and the second may be what they will. —Thomas Fuller

Henrich Expects Yankee Platoon To Help Byrd Sing

"I don't know this Harry Byrd personally," mused Tommy Henrich who gained fame as the Yankee Old Reliable outfielder, "but I believe he's a cinch to become a better player when he puts on that Yankee uniform this year."

Few players of our generation were better analysts of the science of baseball and the patterns of human behavior, so Henrich was the logical expert for The Sporting News, to seek out to explain the "magic" inherent in the Yankee uniform.

"Don't forget, too," added Henrich, "that the Yankees have a pretty good policing system from General Manager Weis down. When a player doesn't do his job, they warn him, warn him, ... then sell him."

So the secret behind the Yankee dynasty is nothing more than the hackneyed word "hustle!" Isn't it a stock phrase for every club to boast of its hustle?

"Don't kid yourself," smiled Henrich. "Other fellows who come to the Yankees from different clubs have told me that their former teams didn't operate the same way. On the Yankee, there's always one idea—to win the game. Anyone who doesn't pull his share of the load gets the quick treatment from the other fellows, to let him know they won't stand for it."

Rookie Rudy Blazes at Bat
The hottest thing in the torrid desert area of Tucson, Ariz., is a 23-year-old rookie named Rudy Regalado, says The Sporting News. Regalado's bat has gained more headline ink than all the other Cleveland Indian stars combined.

In the first few exhibition games, Rudy hit four home runs. After his spree the Cubs came to Tucson for an exhibition. When such slug-gers as Ralph Kiner, Hank Sauer, Al Rosen and Larry Doby came to bat they received only slight applause. In contrast, when Rookie Regalado's name was announced, he received a rousing ovation.

The young infielder from California has the Big Time label all over him. The experts agree he isn't one of those flowers who bloom only in the spring.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Korean veterans released from active service before August 20, 1952, are fast reaching the deadline for taking advantage of the education and training provisions of the Korean GI Bill.

The Veterans Administration this week reminded these veterans that unless they actually are attending school before August 20 of this year, they forfeit their right to Uncle Sam's financial help in their education. Emphasis is on the phrase, "actually enrolled in and attending school."

The law stipulates that Korean veterans must start using their education benefits within two years after their discharge. However, veterans discharged before August 20, 1952—the date of the law—have two years from that date (or until August 20, 1954) to start training or going to school under the auspices of VA.

Since most schools and colleges close during the summer months, those veterans who want to go to school must be enrolled in the spring, 1954, semester at the college of their choice. For veterans taking on-the-job or on-farm training the deadline is not quite so close, since such training can be started at any time prior to August 20, 1954.

The veteran must choose the particular school and courses he wants. Lists of VA-approved schools in the field of training he desires are available upon request to the VA Center, Togus, Maine.

Then he must make sure the school will accept him for training. Next step is to apply to VA for approval of GI educational benefits.

Since all these steps take time, the veteran discharged before August 20, 1952, should act promptly to avoid being shut out by the deadline.

To me the meanest flower that blows can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.

We can furnish practically any make Television set you desire but surprisingly enough it isn't the make of set that is important, it is the manner in which it is installed and adjusted.

Our installation and service department is managed by a Television Engineer of 27 years' experience. Very few dealers in Maine, if any, are as well equipped with the Test and Service instruments as we are in our Service Laboratory.

We printed Raytheon above in a larger caption than the other makes because to you the prospective customer it means a large saving in money. Raytheon services free for four months (quick immediate service) and still gives a complete parts guarantee for one year.

If you desire, terms as low as 10% down and two years to pay. This includes installation.

Why not talk over the advantages of dealing with qualified television men with our full time representative, Mr. Rodney Brooks, Bethel, or call us in East Stoneham.

BATTING

By

*Rogers Hornsby

From the book "How to Play"

published by The Sporting News

Chapter 2

ADVICE ON BATTING

The batter now awaits the first ball that is pitched. He is in stride for the first time. The bat should be held back in a hitting position, arms and elbows away from the body. Your arms must be away from the body to get full freedom of the arm and wrist movement, so that when you swing at the pitch you will be in a perfect position to follow through.

Finish the swing with the bat around the shoulder and the head. By adopting that leveled follow-through swing, controlled by the wrist and arm action, you are able to get distance out of your drives.

The follow-through cannot be emphasized too much. Practice it at all times. Remember the bat must be swung on a direct level, going through a straight line, and not one that drops or raises after the swing from the rear.

By swinging at the ball in this manner you become a line-drive hitter, or hard ground-ball hitter, and not a fly-ball hitter.

The balance in the batter's box is also considered very important. Your front foot is no more than a pivoting guide. The rear leg is the leg that holds the full weight as you stride into the pitch for your follow-through. Put your full weight and body into the swing.

The stride of the front leg is not important. Many batters have been successful by stepping forward; others have been great batters although they pointed their leg to the outside or maybe to the inside.

The real power, however, comes through the proper body balance on the rear leg—the right leg for a right-handed batter, and the left for a left-handed batter—and the ability to develop a position with your arms away from your body so as to be ready to hit at all times with the follow-through swing.

An erect position is preferred. Try not to adopt a bend or even a semi-crouch while at the plate. The batter is again reminded that he must find his natural stance and position. I always stood erect while waiting for the pitched ball. Many good batters go into the half-crouch or bend position.

The feet may be spread, a foot, a foot and a half or maybe two feet. Then again some batters prefer to keep the feet almost together. The part of the stance, the closed or the open, is another point that becomes an individual selection. The player must decide for himself.

Swing at Good Pitches
The ball now has been delivered by the pitcher. Keep your eye on the ball. Follow it the moment it leaves the pitcher's hand.

The pitcher may throw a curve. He may throw a fast ball. He may feel that the change of pace is a good one to deliver. He may try the outside corner. He may pitch to the inside corner. He may pitch high or low.

Any pitched ball that is met squarely by the batter is likely to go for distance. Your timing is important. Follow the ball coming into the plate, and regardless of whether it breaks, is fast or slow, if the timing is perfect, if the swing is on a direct level with the ball, and if you follow-through with your swing, the ball will be well hit.

Be prepared, at all times, for the pitch. By this, it is advised to have your arms back and your bat off your shoulder so that you will be in a hitting position.

Don't become a guess hitter—trying to guess what the pitcher is pitching. Hit only good balls.

Some batters go up to the plate determined to outguess the pitcher. The batter tries to guess what the pitcher is going to throw and swings only at that particular style of pitch.

The batter will get more than his share of base hits if he swings at good pitches, whether it is a curve, change of pace, fast ball, or whatever delivery the pitcher may use.

As related to Ed C. Keener.

This is the second in a series of articles to help give proper instruction to boys in how to play baseball. Future columns will include Pitching, Infielding, Catching, Outfielding and Base Running.

"How to Play," consisting of 112 pages, is available from the publisher, The Sporting News, 201 Washington Ave., St. Louis 3, Mo., for fifty cents a copy.

Plan to be present when the inspection is made so you can see the condition of your car. After all, defective equipment could very well cost your life. Drive a safe car!"
